To lower the risk of spreading COVID-19, we are REQUIRING MASKS IN ALL INDOOR SPACES: the Barn, Auditorium, Restrooms, and under big tents.

Please disperse across all areas and avoid crowding.

As a reminder, the Wells Reserve at Laudholm is a smoke-free facility and pets are not allowed on the site.

Welcome to the 33rd Laudholm Nature Crafts Festival!

We're grateful you're here and glad to be back at it.

This event began in 1988, organized by a few school teachers who wanted to help raise funds for the new estuarine research reserve in Wells. That first crafts festival exceeded all expectations. Since then, year after year, dedicated volunteers have continued to grow the event while maintaining its charm.

We thank all past and present volunteers, exhibitors, donors, and sponsors for making this crafts festival a don't-miss show.

Enjoy your day—and do visit wellsreserve.org for year-round activities and updates!

ORGANIZING COMMITTEE

Pam LeBlanc, Sue Rioux, Michele Stivaletta-Noble

SUPPORT TEAM

Peter Anthony, Carolyn Broad, Nan Graves, Mary & Dave Harrison, Joan Koliass, Denise LaRoche, Peg Nelson, Rebecca Niebling, Liz Walsh, Howard Weinberg
Another 100+ amazing volunteers
...and the staff and board of the Wells Reserve at Laudholm

Our feature image is a great blue heron photographed by Tony King (1934-2017). While you are here, don't miss the exhibit and sale of his work, The Peace of Wild Things: Herons & Egrets Through the Lens of B.A. (Tony) King, in the Coastal Ecology Center.
